PROFILE

I have been coding websites since my first days of college in 1997. What started as a hobby has developed into a career, both as an employee and freelance web designer and developer. I love helping businesses succeed through providing them with a well coded, cross platform, engaging web site.

I have worked with many content management systems as well as created my own CMS developed in PHP and MySQL. I have also set up and helped maintain several large e-commerce sites.

On a personal note, I enjoy spending time with my family, fishing, hunting, reading, woodworking, and tinkering with cars. I also enjoy pastoring a small church in Ludington.
